Books Received in the Week Ending June 25

ALL THE WORLD. BY CHARLES M. SHEL DON. Fiction dealing with reconstruction problems unemployment, disabled fighters, labor troubles and American political issues. New York: George H. Doran Company. $1,25.

LA BODEGA (THE FRUIT OF THE VINE). By Vicente Blasco Isanez. A antional novel of Spain by the author of The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse. The basic theme is intemperance. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. $1.90.

YOU NEVER SAW SUCH A GIRL. BY GEORGE WESTON. Adventures of a country girl who goes to Newport to introduce herself to a grandmother who does not even know of the "girl's" existence. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co. $1.35.

FRED WINSTEAD; A COLLEGE MAN. By Major S. Wood McCleve. Fred Winstead is compelled to leave college because of the failure of his father, a banker. He goes West and as an Arizonan ranchman saves Deerfoot, a Navajo, who gives him a share in a gold claim which makes him rich. A love story as well. Boston: Roxburgh Publishing Company, 61 Court

THE DREAM MAKER. BY HELEN FITE-GERALD SANDERS. The story of a Missis-sippi girl. Some settings in San Fran-eisco. Apparently autobiographical. Bos-ton: The Cornbill Company. $1.50. BOSTON BLACKIE. By Jack Boyle. Stories of an expert safecracker and of the underworld. Boston Blackie will be familiar to readers of the Red Book Mag-azine. New York: H. K. Fly Company.

THE LAND OF STRONG MEN. By A. M. CHISHOLM. Hard drinking, hard fists, hard words and hard hate--also romance and advenutre in the cattle country of the far Northwest. New York: H. K. Fly Company. $1.50.

THE TEST, By PETER HAGBOLDT. Play in three acts. Boston: The Cornhill Company. $1.25. COOD FRIDAY: A PASSION PLAY OF NOW, By TRACY D. MYGATT. Introduc-tion by John Haynes Holmes. New York: Published by the author, 23 Bank street

Political Affairs.

WHAT IS AMERICA! BY EDWARD ALS-WORTH Ros. An argument from history for the safety and persistence of America as a steady going nation despite the "inof rapid and sometimes uneven develop-ment. New York: Century Company

THE POLITICS OF INDUSTRY: A FOOTNOTE TO THE SOCIAL UN-REST. BY GLENN FRANK. Five papers— A Nation of Improvisers, The Background of Reconstruction, Anonymous Liberalism, The Politics of Industry, and Business Statesmanship. New York: Century Com-pany. $1.50. THE BULGARIANS AND ANGLO-SAX-

ONDOM. By CONSTANTINE STEPHANOVE. In English, with maps. A detailed plea for Bulgaria and the Bulgarians as the best and most important nation of the Balkans. Index. Berne, Switzerland: Paul Haupt, Librairie Academique.

Biography.

MEMOIR OF KENELM HENRY DIGBY. BY BERNARD HOLLAND. The subject was an English university man who was converted to Catholicism. He was never in public life. New York: Longmans, Green

PERNANDO, By JOHN AVSCOUGH, Looks PERNANDO. By John Ayscough. Looks like a novel and begins like one, but is the autobiography of the novelist, John Ayscough, who is Mgr. Bickerstaff-Drew. New York: P. J. Kenedy & Sons. $1.60. THE DICKENS CIRCLE: A NARRATIVE OF THE NOVELIST'S PRIENDSHIPS.

By J. W. T. LEY. Dickens's original publishers are said to be of opinion that this is the most important work on him since Forster's biography. Illustrations and index. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co... UST ME. By Pearl, Whife, The straightaway story of a movie star from the days when she was on the road with a cheap stock company to her apotheosis in The Perils of Pauline. New York: George H. Doran Company. $1.25.

Nature Study.

THE MASON WASP. BY HENRI FABRE. Translation by Alexander Teixeira de Mattos. Fascinating, popular and yet pro-found studies of the insect by the famous French unturalist, who died in 1915. This book is one of ten volumes embodying his life work and called Souvenirs ento-mologiques. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co. $1.75.

> IF you are past thirty years, have a touch of sentiment, and enjoy the whimsical-introduce vourself at once to

Take with you on your vacation

Conrad in Quest of His Youth The Acto:-Manager and Cynthia, Eath $1.50 net.

E. P. Dutton & Co., 681 5th Ave., N.Y.

MAN-O'-WAR RHYMES, By BURT FRANK-AND JENNESS. Thirty-six poems on such themes as The Ambulance Corps, The Engineers, The Army Mule, The Deserter, Homeward Bound, Grub, The Rookie, &c. Boston: The Cornhill Company.

W. B. IN CALIFORNIA: A TRIBUTE.

Paper covered volume containing poems presented to Witter Bynner by his students, friends and colleagues at a dinner on May 27. Four hundred copies only. SOCK SONGS. Introduction by HARRY ESTY DOUNCE. Verse which appeared orig-inally in The SUNDAY SUN as the result of a contest begun to stimulate knitting for our soldiers and sailors. Boston: The

Cornhill Company, $1.25,
TREASURED NATURE LYRICS. SELECTED BY ALICE WILSON WILCOX, A small anthology starting with William Cullen Byrant's To the Fringed Gentian Collen Byrant's To the Fringed Gentlan and including such recent verse as that of John Oxenham. Indexed. Boston: Richard G. Badger. $1.50.

SONGS OF MANY MOODS. By ROBERT T. DUNCAN. Fifty-two poems. Boston: Richard G. Badger.

CHIPS FROM A BUSY WORKSHOP. By

LORIN WEBSTER. A great number of verses grouped under these headings: Songs of Precdom, Songs of Loyalty, Sacred Songs, The Web of Life, Love Lyries, Songs of Childhood, In Remembrance, and In Lighter Vein. Boston: Richard G. Badger. Richard G. Badger.

Religion.

HISTORY OF RELIGIONS: VOLUME IL: JUDAISM, CHRISTIANITY, MOHAM-MEDANISM. By GROEGE FOOT MOORE. Four chapters (on Judaism, eleven on Christianity, seven on Mohammedanism. The author is professor of the history of religion at Harvard. Reading list and index. New York: Charles Schibner's Sons.

Spiritism.

PRIVATE DOWDING. With notes by W. T. P. Record of the after-death expericenes of a soldier killed in battle with questions on world issues "answered by the messenger who taught him wider truths." New York: Dodd, Mead & Co.

MIND AND CONDUCT. BY HENRY RUT-GERS MARSHALL. Discusses the corelation of mind and conduct through consciousness and behavior, instinct and reason, and the considers, as implications of this correlation, creativeness and ideals, and freedom and responsibility; advances as guides to conduct, pleasure and pain, hed-onism, intuition and reason. Index. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. $1.75.

PSYCHOLOGY OF THE NORMAL AND SUBNORMAL. By HENRY HERBERT GODDARD. By the director of the Ohio Bureau of Juvenile Research, who became widely known for his work with imbeciles at the Vineland, New Jersey, Laboratory. Attempts a comprehensive study of the reasonings, feelings and motives of the mentally defective. Bibliography and index. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co. $5.

History.

FIFTY YEARS OF EUROPE. BY CHARLES DOWNER HAZEN. History of Europe since the Franco-Prussian War, by the profes-sor of history at Columbia University, already known for his Europe Since 1815.

and other books. Maps and index.

THE PROBLEM OF THE PACIFIC. By
C. Brunspon Fletcher. An Englis specialist's account of the efforts of Japan; America, Germany and Britain to extend their mastery over the Pacific; and particularly of the antagonism between Australia and Japan. Map and index. New York: Henry Holt & Co.

Textiles.

BATIKS AND HOW TO MAKE THEM. By Peter Mijer. Explains in untechnical language the batik process of decorating textiles by using beeswax, dye and a little skill. The author has studied his subject in Java. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co. $1.75.

China.

NEW LIFE CURRENTS IN CHINA. BY MARY NINDE GAMEWELL. Deals with pres-ent day conditions in China as the mis-sionary or social worker will find them. The appendices contain statistics. New York: Missionary Education Movement of the United States and Canada, 160 Fifth

"The Dardanelles Campaign"

LTHOUGH the Dardanelles cam-A paign was fought as recently as 1915, thirteen books had been written about it before H. W. Nevinson set about presenting his account of that greatest British failure of the war. Moreover, owing to the habit of Anglo-Saxons of washing their military incompetency linen in public, we have the extraordinarily frank and comprehensive Dardanelles commission report, Sir Ian Hamilton's "despatches" and Sir Charles Monro's despatch on the evacuation-the famous. document which begins with the calm but damning statement that the British position at the Dardanelles " had every defect known to military science." In a sense the story of this campaign has been set down more extensively than any single feature of the war; for not even the retreat from Mons has had more books written about it.

Yet the defect of this matter is that it is too abundant and scattered. And the merit of Mr. Nevinson's work is that it assembles all the facts of the campaign into one volume, presents them in a well ordered sequence, stripped of much of the passion that has attended most of the stories or military accounts of this great strategic enterprise, as it unquestionably

To those whose business it was to follow the military and naval operations of the war professionally there will be little that is new in this volume. Nor will the general reader, as most of us were during hostilities, find that Mr. Nevinson has any fresh tales to tell. The great merit of this book, and it is a very great merit indeed, is that it begins the story of the operations at the Dardanelles at the very beginning, with Winston Churchill's inception of the plan on September 1, 1914, and follows it through its terrible yet gallant course until the last man withdrew from that scene of death and desolation, in a military sense, on January 9,

His minute details of the succession of events within the British War Council leading up to the final decision to make this attempt to force the Dardanelles and seize Constantinople are so clear in their sequence as to set every one stranght in this matter for all time to come. Particularly British is his presentation of the fact that when Lord Fisher, then at the head of the Admiralty, went to the sessions of the war council attended by two technical advisers, these two naval officers never spoke at the sessions, since no one addressed any questions to them. They thought it would be "bad form" for them to give advice until it was asked, and their silence led to the tragic consequence that Winston Churchill believed the two officers to be in favor of his plan!

Mr. Nevinson's method of dividing up the attacks by the British forces on the Turkish positions chronologically is an admirable one and a novelty in descriptions of battles that makes for ease of understanding them more clearly. It was generally accepted by military writers that the Allies lost one opportunity to gain the passage of the Dardanelles by not "sticking it" for one more day in the first purely naval attack. But it probably is not so well known by what a narrow margin they stood to win the land campaign on that morning of August 9 when Major Allanson and his men stood between Chunuk Bair and Hill Q, saw the Dardanelles below them, "the aim and object of all these battles and sudden deaths." Allanson and his men had taken the height, and then they dashed down the slope after the fleeing Turks only to be overtaken by that supreme tragedy of war a salvo of shells which Nevinson declares "probably" were British. That burst of shells settled for the second time the near triumph of the Allies in that campaign; for the Turks promptly took advantage of the confusion into which the British troops had fallen and drove them back over the ridge. "No seldier in our army vas ever to behold that triumphant pros pect again."

Every one who has read some of the many tales of this campaign can but wonder how a nation that could so tragically mismanage the beginning of a campaign could work itself up to so high a pitch of effectiveness as marked the operation of the evacuation of the peninsula. Even a German war correspondent was moved to write of this last event: "So long as wars exist the British evacuation of the Ari Burnu and Anafarta fronts will stand before the eyes of all strategists of retreat as a hitherto quite unattained masterpiece."

Yet it did the one and the other; and between, thousands of gallant men gave up their lives to attain a great object that through every imaginable error was brought to naught. Of plan and failure, of gallantry that has no parallel in the war, Mr. Nevinson gives his readers the most complete picture we yet have had in any one volume, a book recording "the disastrous and tragic disabilities of our race, but on the other hand its versatility, its fortitude and its happy though silent welcome to any free sacrifice involving great issues for mankind."

THE DARDANELLES CAMPAIGN. BY H. W. NEVINSON. Henry Holt & Co. $5. War Books.

SMALL THINGS. BY MARGARET DELAND. On the order of Dorothy Canfield's Home Fires in France—unpretentious but mem-orable pictures of the effect upon ordinary French lives of the war. New York: D. Appleton & Co. $1.35.

HISTORY OF THE YANKEE DIVISION. BY HARRY A. BENWELL. With the praises of the division's work uttered by Gen. John J. Pershing, Major-Gen. Clarence R. Edwards and Secretary of War Newton D. Baker. Complete and apparently authoritative record of the organization, training in France, battle of Apremont, on through to the journey home. Boston: The Cornhill Company. $2.

HISTORY OF THE GREAT WAR: VOLUME IV.: THE BRITISH CAM-PAIGN IN FRANCE AND FLANDERS, 1917. By A. Conan Doyle. Carries the history, which is principally of the British arms, from the German retreat upon the Arras-Soissons front through the Battle of Arras, April 9:23, 1917, the Battle of Messines, the third Battle of Ypres (four chapters) and the Battle of Cambrai. Indexed. New York: George H. Doran Com-pany. $2.50. NVENTIONS OF THE GREAT WAR.

By A. Bussell Bond. The author is managing editor of the Scientific American. He deals with bombs and hand grenades, weapons of trench warfare, rifles and bullets, self-firing guns and super guns, gun fire by map, gas and liquid fire, tanks, &c. Illustrations. Indexed. New York: Century Company. $1.75.

STOP AT SUZANNE'S AND LOWER FLIGHTS. By GREAVER CLOVER. Letters and prose sketches. The author ters and prose sketches. The Ruthor was a freshman in Yale when he enlisted with the French Camion Gonvoi. New York: George H. Doran Company. $1.50.

LA GRANDE GUERRE SUR LE FRONT OCCIDENTAL: VOLUME IV.: LES BATAILLES DE LOBRAINE. Par General Palat (PIERRE LEHAUTCOURT). War on the Western Front from August 23 to September 13, 1914. With six maps. 23 to September 13, 1914. With six maps. In French. Paris: Librairie Chapelot. 7 francs 50 centimes.

Popular Science.

HE REALITIES OF MODERN SCIENCE: AN INTRODUCTION FOR THE GENERAL READER. By JOHN MILLS. The author is in the research laboratories of the Western Electric Com-pany. Index. New York: The Macmil-lan Company. $2.50.

Navigation.

NAVIGATION AND NAUTICAL AS-TRONOMY. By Prov. J. H. C. Corrin and ELMER B. COLLINS. Eleventh edition, revised and enlarged, of a book originally prepared for the use of the United States Naval Academy. New York: D. Van Nostrand Company, $3.

Miscellaneous.

T LAST"; CONCLUSION WOMAN'S EFFORT." BY A WOMAN'S EFFORT." By A. E. METCALF. Completes the record, begun METCALF. Completes the record, begun in a similar English political pamphlet, Woman's Effort, of the political changes in the status of women in England in the last four years. New York: Longmans, Green & Co. 60 cents.

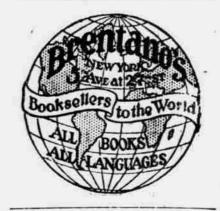

SCANNELL'S NEW JERSEY'S FIRST CITIZEN'S AND STATE GUIDE 1919-1920. Volume II. EDITED BY J. J. SCANNELL. A biennial publication giving short biographies of New Jersey men and short biographies of New Jersey men and women. Information on the State's institutions. Paterson, N. J.: J. J. Scan-

GO! By GEORGE HARRISON PHELPS. An "inspirational" book made up of anec-dotes and exhortations which were "shot out in the heat of big selling campaigns to a sales organization that has accom-plished remarkable things.' Chicago: Reilly & Lee. Co.

STATISTICS OF ORTALITY STATISTICS OF IN-SURED WAGE-EARNERS and THEIR FAMILIES. By Louis I. Dublin, EDWIN W. KOPP and GEORGE H. VAN BUREN. Experience of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company industrial department, 1911 to 1916, in the United States and Canada. New York: Metropolitan Life Insurance Company

TECHNICAL DICTIONARY IN FOUR LANGUAGES: ENGLISH, FRENCH, ITALIAN AND GERMAN, BY EDOARDO WEBBER. Each word in all four lan-guages on the two facing pages. Pocket size, though of over 900 pages. New York: Isaac Pitman & Sons. $5.50.

LET US PRINT THAT BOOK FOR YOU! High-grade Work Promptness and Reliability

WANDER PRESS 114-116 East 13th Street

New York City. Tel. Stuyvesant 3314.